TEAM

Who runs iBizAI

One human, named, with the role he actually holds. Then an AI executive team, disclosed as AI — original personas, not people, and not shareholders.

The human

Carlos Miranda Levy

Coordinator of Impact, Innovation and Intelligence

Carlos Miranda Levy is Coordinator of Impact, Innovation and Intelligence and the curator of iBizAI. He founded CEMI; he does not lead with the title, and it appears here once because an investor is entitled to know who is behind the company.

His work spans content creation, disaster response, AI, education, consulting, startups, social entrepreneurship and parenting, across the Caribbean, Santiago de Chile, Silicon Valley, Paris, Japan and Singapore. He is the author of the Impact Arc — Engage, Enable, Inspire, Empower, Connect — the anti-assistentialist frame CEMI has adopted as its social-impact perspective, and which shapes how iBizAI treats a client: build capability, never dependency.

He holds that education is about the learning experience and not the teaching one, and that the right posture toward AI is augmentation, not replacement. Both convictions are visible in the product: the free educational layer exists to make the buyer competent, not dependent, and every tool in the Suite keeps a human in the loop on the irreversible steps.

Who is in the cap table

Today the company has one shareholder of record. The round adds the investors who subscribe. The AI executives below are not shareholders, hold no equity, appear nowhere in the round snapshot or the dilution table, and cannot. The full cap table opens under NDA; the dilution table on the ask page is the only part published.

AI executive leadership iBizAI is run day to day with an executive team of original AI personas, held in the CEMI Personas single source of truth and synchronised into this site at build time. They are disclosed as what they are on every surface they appear on. They set voice, discipline and perspective; they do not sign, own or vote.

Financial terms, revenue and detailed materials are available on request. Figures describe capacity built and operating today; forward-looking statements are identified as such.
